

'RIGHT TO WORK' IS AN ATTACK ON MICHIGAN'S MIDDLE CLASS

Michigan's middle-class families are struggling to make ends meet. Tough economic times mean shared sacrifice, and middle-class families have been sacrificing for a long time now.

However, not everyone's sharing in the sacrifice. Lansing politicians recently gave corporate special interests like big banks and oil companies a $1.8 billion tax break while cutting our schools and raising taxes on seniors. (CBS Detroit, 2/17/11)

Now politicians and rich CEOs are making another power grab and trying to pass a law to undermine workers' rights. This law, misleadingly titled "Right to Work" and "Freedom to Work," would further weaken middle-class families, just so corporate special interests can add to their profits.

"Right to work" would give more power to Gov. Snyder, the state legislature and emergency financial managers. It would allow them to eliminate unions and further cut pay and benefits for workers like teachers, firefighters and nurses.

WRONG FOR WORKING FAMILIES.
